

RUTH THOMSON

A CREATIVE, PASSIONATE AND DYNAMIC
TRAINER, COACH AND BUSINESS LEADER.

Ruth's mission is to help individuals and organisations thrive in the rapidly changing digital world. There has never been a greater imperative for us all to develop management, leadership skills and professional skills.

During her career she has worked at all levels from Manager to Director and delivered successful projects in multiple sectors. Her expertise has been built working for large, medium and start-up businesses from higher education to data science consulting

Drawing on her 20 years of professional experience, she has been designing dynamic, fast paced and impactful training courses and workshops for over 13 years. She brings a laser focus on understanding and meeting business needs and objectives. Her data-driven approach focuses relentlessly on ensuring her training meets learning objectives that result in real business impact.

She prides herself on being able to understand and engage with diverse audiences and help them combine their own existing knowledge with the training content. She is as confident and comfortable training both technical and non-technical managers and leaders having worked successfully with both.

With over 16 years leadership and management experience, she is driven by the knowledge that there is an increasing need for rapid skill development in leadership and management. She combines her international training experience with leadership roles in business to ensure that her training stays relevant whilst including the time-honored principles of management and leadership.

RUTH THOMSON

A CREATIVE, PASSIONATE AND DYNAMIC
TRAINER, COACH AND BUSINESS LEADER.

She is passionate about innovation in learning and is always looking to bring new innovations into her training. Recently she has started bringing findings from neuroscience and psychology into her training to facilitate and improve learning. Alongside her professional experience,

Ruth is passionate about coaching and mentoring ambitious entrepreneurs and intrapreneurs. Another of her passion projects is investing in innovative start-ups, especially those that are improving people's lives. She enjoys sharing her knowledge and expertise and has contributed to publications including The Times Business Section, The Guardian, The Telegraph and Virgin Entrepreneur Network.

She is Belbin Team role accredited and can create programs that combine increasing self-awareness and understanding with learning. Ruth brings her own passion for lifelong learning into her work, ensuring her training is best in class.

Recent training she has taken includes Managing Innovation Strategically at Cambridge University Judge Business School and Artificial Intelligence and Business Strategy at MIT. Working with Ruth, you'll get a pragmatic and fresh approach bringing creativity to everything she does.

Clients include: AstraZeneca, Lloyds Bank, Google and Johnson & Johnson.

Business Qualifications and Memberships: ILM Certificate in Leadership and Management, Associate Member of the British Neuroscience Association, Belbin Team Roles Accredited